Overview

DBT is an intensive, out-patient program that is certified through Minnesota Department of Human Services. It is designed to help people rebuild their lives. It has been developed under the direction and supervision of Behavioral Tech. whose founder is Marsha Linehan, PH.D.

This therapy program is an evidence-based practice. It is for people with complex, difficult to treat behavioral health problems. It is in part based on the assumption that people are doing the best they can with what they have and want a life worth living. DBT has provided hope for those suffering from issues related to 1) Intense, out of control emotions 2) Impulsive, self-destructive behaviors, 3) Unstable relationships. Among the common diagnosis for DBT client are: Borderline Personality Disorder, Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, Major Depression, and Substance Abuse Disorders.

Program Components

DBT is a one year program that includes the following components:

- Skills Training: The educational component that focuses on teaching specific skills to address interpersonal problems, unmanageable emotions, and cope with crisis. Each unit is listed below:

- Interpersonal Effectiveness:

The ability to meet our needs and self-respect while preserving or enhancing relationships.

- Distress Tolerance: The ability to handle crisis situations that we cannot change.
- Emotion Regulation: Involves experiencing emotions in healthy ways.
- Mindfulness : The cornerstone of DBT that enhances control and clarity to life. It slows life down and allows for "living in the moment".

- Individual Therapy: This is the vehicle that drives the treatment. This is structured, directive, and problem focused. In essence, the therapist serves as a guide to applying the skills learned in skills training toward the clients goals. Special attention is paid to promote commitment to DBT. Sessions are held weekly.
- Coaching Calls: Access to the individual therapist is available 24 hours a day. Brief instruction on putting into practice DBT skills to avert or effectively deal with a crisis is the goal.
- Team consultation: Weekly meetings among DBT providers for support in the practice of DBT.
